No Boston Olympics says no thanks to 2024 games

Boston. Civic leaders are pushing harder for hosting the 2024 Summer Olympics, despite sky-high costs and an apparent lack of public interest.

A June poll by The Boston Globe found that 47 percent of the 604 people polled backed the Olympic bid, while 43 percent opposed it. But when asked if they would back tax dollars supporting the bid, just 25 percent were in favor, while 64 percent opposed the idea.

According to Christopher Dempsey, co-chair of the group No Boston Olympics, it's clear why.

"It's a scary reality," said Dempsey. "The [International Olympic Committee] is looking for someone to throw it a big, expensive party, and Boston is actually one of the favorites. But why would we want to foot the bill for that?"

No Boston Olympics released a report in February estimating that the cost of hosting the 2024 Games could run between $10 billion and $20 billion — about as much as The Big Dig.

But rather than using that money to build a velodrome or a new soccer stadium, No Boston Olympics believes it should be spent on improving transportation and building schools, hospitals and bridges.

"Those are the things that will make Boston a great place to live in five or 10 years," said Dempsey. "Not sporting venues we don't really need."

Mayor Marty Walsh addressed cost concerns at Monday's event at Blazing Paddles, saying he wasn't going to "mortgage the future of the city for the Olympics."

"I've been working very closely with the 2024 committee to talk about how we pay for it," Walsh said. "I think there's an opportunity here in the city of Boston to put together an Olympics that's a walkable Olympics. The infrastructure can be mostly private Dempsey said No Boston Olympics plans to build more momentum against the 2024 bid in coming months.

MBTA downplays Green Line extension delays

The MBTA is downplaying concerns regarding possible delays and increasing costs to the Green Line project that will bring additional stations to Somerville.

Proposed Washington Street and Union Square stations in Somerville are now scheduled to be completed in the second half of 2017 instead of the first half of that year, but T spokesman Joe Pestaro maintains, "There are no significant changes in the construction timetable."

The Green Line extension project proposes to relocate the Lechmere stop and create additional stops in Union Square, Washington Street, Gilman Square and Lowell Street in Somerville, and Ball Square and College Avenue in Medford.

The MBTA is also shrugging off chatter about cost increases for the project. Over the summer, it was revealed the budget for the project was $1.9 billion, which was about $300 million more than previously thought.

Pestaro says that figure includes a 30 percent cost contingency. He says the T is confident the cost will be closer to $1.6 billion. METRO

UMass 50th Anniversary celebration marred by protests

The University of Massachusetts Boston celebrated its 50th anniversary on Tuesday with a march from the State House to Boston Common, where they offered free lessons to the public. The Campus on the Common event was meant to showcase the university's 11 colleges and various programs, however roughly 100 employees gained the spotlight as they protested sick time and vacation pay concessions the university has requested.

Tsarnaev pal testifies in Phillippos trial

Phillippos / NICOLAUS CZARNECKI, METRO

A man convicted of obstructing the Boston Marathon bombing investigation testified against Robel Phillippos on Tuesday, someone he described as a close friend he saw nearly every day in the months leading up to the 2013 terror attack.

Azamat Tazhayakov, who did not testify during his own trial in July, took the stand as a prosecution witness on the second day of Phillippos' trial at U.S. District Court in Boston.

Phillippos is accused of lying to investigators about being present on April 18, 2013, when Tazhayakov and another man, Dias Kadyrbayev, removed evidence from accused bomber Dzhokhar Tsarnaev's dorm at UMass Dartmouth. The three were all friends with Tsarnaev, who is awaiting trial.

Tazhayakov was convicted of obstruction of justice and conspiracy, and said Tuesday he has struck a deal with the U.S. government to "tell the truth" during Phillippos' trial, as "it may help" with his looming sentencing.

Tazhayakov testified only briefly before court was adjourned for the day. He is expected to take the stand again Tuesday. MORGAN ROUSSEAU

T restores weekend rail service

Weekend commuter rail service to points south of Boston that were cut two years ago will be restored later this year, MassDOT announced Tuesday.

Riders will be able to travel between South Station and stops on the Plymouth/Kingston and Greenbush Lines beginning Dec. 27. Saturday service on the Needham line will also be restored.

The trains are set to run on timetables similar to schedules that were cut over two years ago after cost-saving measures and fare hikes brought on by a transportation reform law.

"While we often must make difficult decisions in balancing the system we want and the system we can afford," said T General Manager Beverly Scott, "I'm pleased that today we can once again provide weekend service to these communities." SHNS

Investigation

Federal agents probe series of school threats

The FBI and local police are working together to find the people behind multiple threatening emails that have been sent to Boston-area high schools over the past two weeks.

High schools in Sandy Hook, Connecticut, as well as schools in the New Hampshire towns of Winchester, Bedford, Swampscott, Franklin, Westwood and Bedford suffered temporary closures due to the threats.

"All jurisdictions that have been victimized are working together to bring a resolution to the cases," Bedford Police Chief Robert Bongiorno told The Boston Globe. "We will continue to work with our partners on the federal, state and local levels."

Officials said the threats were deemed to have low credibility, but some schools closed out of an abundance of caution. GLOBE

Cops investigate possible pattern of area stickups

Franklin Park. Officials said a weekend robbery is similar to another armed robbery last week near Jamaica Pond.

Police are investigating whether two suspects who were arraigned on Monday for a Franklin Park knife-point robbery are connected to a recent spate of similar crimes near Jamaica Pond, according to the Suffolk County District Attorney's office.

A 13-year-old Dorchester resident is facing charges of assault with intent to murder, kidnapping and armed robbery.

Motas-Pena, a 21-year-old from Dorchester, who faces similar charges.

Police say on Saturday the pair were part of a trio that attacked and threatened a man who was out walking his dog near Jewish War Vets Drive in Roxbury at knife-point, pushed him into a bush, tied him up, stole his possessions and threw him in a pond, according to the DA's office. They then fled toward Shattuck Hospital.

Later, police apprehended two of the three suspects after a brief foot chase in Jamaica Plain. The third individual got away.

Analysis

Are the robberies connected?

Last month, police issued a community alert after three people were robbed near Jamaica Pond by two men brandishing a gun and a knife. One victim was tied to a tree. Earlier this month, two more women near Jamaica Pond were attacked by knife-wielding assailants.

Now, investigators are reviewing the evidence in this weekend's Franklin Park assault for links to other similar incidents, including the Jamaica Pond crimes, according to the Suffolk County District Attorney's office.

Woburn and Winchester. Police issue warning about 'polite' burglar

Police are seeking an apologetic burglar who they believe broke into several homes in Woburn and Winchester in recent weeks.

The suspect, police said, typically breaks into homes in the early morning hours via windows. If he's confronted by residents, he's been described as "very polite and apologetic" as he flees, according to police.

Police describe the suspect as a dark-skinned Hispanic or light-skinned African-American in his early 20s who has black marks or acne scars on his face. He favors a gray zip-up hoodie and is around six-feet tall.

Despite his civility, police say he should be considered dangerous.

"Outward behavior should not lull residents into a false sense of security. This is a dangerous felon who breaks into people's homes, often while they are asleep inside," said Woburn Police Chief Robert J. Ferullo. DANNY McDONALD

The stage was a barbecue joint near Foxborough. Veteran offensive linemen, wrote Tucker, proposed a beer-chugging contest. Some laughed at the prospect of Brady joining. They should have known: Doubt the cleft-chinned wonder at your own peril.

"I still have never seen anybody chug a beer faster than Tom Brady," wrote Tucker. "You should've seen the way he slammed down his cup — it was like he was spiking the ball after a TD. It was hilarious. It was awesome. It was textbook Brady."

Bloomberg lends support to Baker, Moulton

Republican gubernatorial nominee Charlie Baker on Tuesday announced the endorsement of his campaign by former New York City Mayor and Medford native Michael Bloomberg.

The New York Times reported that Bloomberg plans to invest in Baker's campaign for governor over the final weeks of the campaign as part of a $25 million spending blitz to help elect "centrist-oriented candidates of both parties."

The Times reported that Bloomberg, elected three times as an independent in New York City, plans to pay for television ads through his Independence USA PAC.

How much Bloomberg plans to spend in Massachusetts was unclear. Baker is locked in a statistical dead heat with Democrat Martha Coakley, who lives in Medford, in the race to succeed Gov. Deval Patrick.

In a statement released by Baker's campaign, Bloomberg's political adviser Howard Wolfson credited Baker with modernizing state government and saving Harvard Pilgrim Health Care from bankruptcy.

Bloomberg is also expected to air ads in support of Democrat Seth Moulton, who is running in the 6th District Congressional race against former state Senate Minority Leader Richard Tisei after knocking off incumbent John Tierney in the September primary. SEMS

'7th Heaven' dad investigated for child molestation

Recording. Audio from a therapy session reportedly contains Stephen Collins' confession.

Former "7th Heaven" star and author Stephen Collins is under investigation after a recording surfaced on TMZ in which Collins allegedly admits to molesting several young children.

In the recording, from a therapy session with then-wife Faye Grant, Collins admits to molesting an 11-year-old girl and exposing himself to two other girls between the ages of 10 and 13.

According to the New York Daily News, the NYPD's Special Victims Unit is currently investigating the claims, as two of the alleged victims were Manhattan residents then. The abuse is said to have taken place more than 40 years ago, in 1972, though it wasn't reported until 2012.

"I woke up today to learn that an extremely private recording I handed over to the authorities in 2012 per their request in connection with a criminal investigation was recently disseminated to the press," Grant said in a statement on Tuesday. "I had no involvement whatsoever with the release of the tape to the media."

Following the recording's release, Collins, 67, was fired from Seth MacFarlane's upcoming "Ted 2," in which he was reportedly set to play a small role, according to Entertainment Weekly. He has also resigned from his position on the National Board of the Screen Actors Guild. And UP TV and the TV Guide Network announced that they would immediately stop running syndicated episodes of "7th Heaven."

'Hairgate'

iPhone hit by new social media storm

First, there was bendgate. Now brace yourself for hairgate.

Fresh from the online uproar over whether the shiny new iPhone 6 bends when carried around in pockets, Apple has been hit by a new complaint — that the handset traps users' hair or beards when they make calls.

It is difficult to gauge whether there is any real issue, but Twitter users have made #hairgate a rising social media trend, leading major news outlets to pounce on the story.

"The seam on my iPhone 6 where the aluminum meets the glass is definitely catching my hair and pulling it out," one user tweeted.

Bearded iPhone users have jumped on the bandwagon, complaining that their facial hair gets yanked during calls, leading to spats over whether to treat #beardgate as a separate trend, or simply as a subset of #hairgate.

Apple was not immediately available to comment. REUTERS

More US states push for gay unions

Legal pressure mounted across the country on Tuesday for further expansion of marriage rights after the Supreme Court declined to uphold bans in five states, but left intact 20 others.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago issued orders on Tuesday that mean earlier rulings striking down bans in Wisconsin and Indiana can now go into effect.

Marriage equality advocates in Florida also planned to ask a federal judge on Tuesday to lift a stay and allow same-sex unions to go ahead in Florida. Legal challenges were also being planned in North and South Carolina and West Virginia.

The U.S. Supreme Court declined on Monday to rule on whether states can ban gay marriage, but rejected appeals to uphold the ban in Virginia, Oklahoma, Utah, Wisconsin and Indiana. REUTERS

Ebola. Four in hospital in Spain after first case not contracted in Africa

Four people have been hospitalized in Spain to try to stem the spread of Ebola after a Spanish nurse became the first person in the world known to have contracted the virus outside of Africa, authorities said on Tuesday.

The nurse, who tested positive for the virus on Monday, her husband, who is showing no symptoms of the disease and two other people are being closely monitored in the hospital, health officials told a news conference in Madrid.

One of those hospitalized is a health worker who has diarrhea but no fever. The other is a Spaniard who traveled from Nigeria, said Rafael Perez-Santamaria, head of the Carlos III Hospital where the infected nurse treated two Spanish missionaries who contracted the disease in Africa. REUTERS

Sen. Chuck Schumer said he expects the U.S. Centers for Disease Control will propose tougher Ebola screening requirements this week at U.S. airports.

Epidemic

Male Ebola survivors told: Use a condom

Sex could keep the Ebola epidemic alive even after the World Health Organization (WHO) declares an area free of the disease, one of the discoverers of the deadly virus said on Tuesday.

The WHO is hoping to announce later this week that Nigeria and Senegal are free of Ebola after 42 days with no infections — the standard period for declaring an outbreak over, twice the maximum 21-day incubation period of the virus.

However, it appears the disease can last much longer in semen.

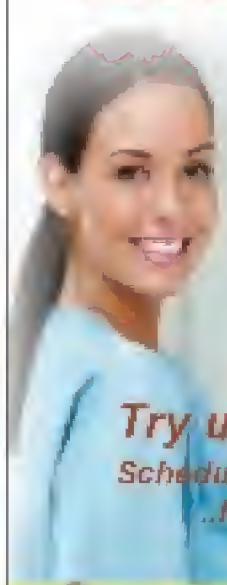

"In a convalescent male, the virus can persist in semen for at least 70 days; one study suggests persistence for more than 90 days," the WHO said in an information note on Monday. REUTERS

Jennifer Lawrence: 'I didn't tell you that you could look at my naked body'

Jennifer Lawrence is finally speaking out about the nude photo hacking attack to which she and several other female celebrities fell victim. And as usual, Lawrence has some pretty awesome things to say, so we'll just let her speak for herself: "I was just so afraid. I didn't know how this would affect my career," Lawrence tells Vanity Fair. "Just because I'm a public figure, just because I'm an actress, does not mean that I asked for this. It does not mean that it comes with the territory. It's my body, and it should be my choice, and the fact that it is not my choice is absolutely disgusting. I can't believe that we even live in that kind of world."

There's a reason it took her this long to speak out, as the violation of privacy was understandably pretty tough to get over. "Every single thing that I tried to write made me cry or get angry," Lawrence says. "I started to write an apology, but I don't have anything to say I'm sorry for. I was in a loving, healthy, great relationship for four years. It was long-distance, and either your boyfriend is going to look at porn or he's going to look at you." Which leads to one of the key points Lawrence so eloquently makes: Those photos are not for you. "It is not a scandal. It is a sex crime. It is a sexual violation," she says. "Anybody who looked at those pictures, you're perpetuating a sexual offense. You should cower with shame. Even people who I know and love say, 'Oh, yeah, I looked at the pictures.' I don't want to get mad, but at the same time I'm thinking, 'I didn't tell you that you could look at my naked body.'"

Gerard Depardieu: Actor, drunk, prostitute, grave robber

Now, onto less serious topics, like Gerard Depardieu's past as a male prostitute. The highly quotable French actor — or is he technically a Russian actor now? I can't keep up — has a new autobiography, "That's the Way It Was," and it has some rather interesting revelations. For instance, as a teen and young adult in France, he worked as an escort. "I've known since I was very young that I please homosexuals," he writes — though that statement should probably be in past tense, if you know what I mean. Oh, and not only did he please them, he would also sometimes mug them, which is just poor customer service: "At 20, the thug in me was alive and kicking." That thug in him also led him into the lucrative worlds of auto theft — for which he served time — and grave robbing. Delightful.

Depardieu also addresses that whole "I drink 14 bottles of wine a day" thing from a recent interview, and I have to give him this: He can be rather poetic. "I'm obsessed with the racket in my body, the beating of my heart, the gurgling of my intestines, my joints cracking," he writes. "I must drink so as not to hear it, so as not to go mad from it. I can't get to sleep unless I am dead drunk." Just be sure to check your pockets when you wake up, Gerry. Karma can be rough.

Queen Elizabeth swipes left

This had to be an awkward security briefing. Queen Elizabeth is reportedly "deeply concerned" about safety at Buckingham Palace since so many of her staff are having overnight guests that they met through dating apps such as Tinder and Grindr, according to the Daily Mail. "There are real and serious security concerns at Buckingham Palace about members of staff [and their] use of dating apps such as Tinder, which can be rather sleazy," a source says. "The palace police are particularly unhappy about the number of guests of servants staying overnight, especially when they may have only just met." First of all, I wish someone had been using a hidden camera when a staffer had to explain to the Queen about Grindr and Tinder. And secondly, there's a "let them eat cake" joke in here somewhere, but I'm not sure the end result is printable.

Can we say anything good about a 'Say Anything' TV show?

Does Lloyd Dobler have a place in the 21st century? / 20TH CENTURY FOX

In the "everything old is new again" TV department, we have some good news and some bad news. First, the good news: David Lynch and Mark Frost are bringing back "Twin Peaks" 25 years after its cancellation as a limited series on Showtime sometime in 2016. The nine-episode run will continue the story from the original series, picking up 25 years later. If you're Facebook friends with anybody over 30, you likely saw this news on your feed on Monday.

Now, for the less-welcome news: NBC is going back to the 1980s-movie well for series ideas, as the network has ordered a script for a sitcom based on the John Cusack-starring classic "Say Anything," picking up 10 years after the end of the 1989 film. NBC previously optioned "Real Genius" and "Problem Child" for series adaptations, so apparently the trend of turning old TV shows into movies has been completely reversed.

This talking yellow crayon, from the film "The Hero of Color City," is voiced by Christina Ricci. / MAGNOLIA PICTURES

Christina Ricci is trying to be polite

Interview. Once prone to sarcasm and darkness, the actress is now in a kids' movie, "The Hero of Color City."

Fifteen years ago it might have seemed odd for Christina Ricci to pop up in a G-rated animated movie about talking crayons. Perhaps it still is. Yet here she is, top-billed in "The Hero of Color City," a film aimed squarely at children in which she voices Yellow, an anthropomorphic color stick seeking to stop a catastrophe in an alternate all-crayon realm.

"I thought it was a sweet story," Ricci says. The sincerity may seem surprising coming from someone who, when she was younger, was prone to making shocking comments about putting cigarettes out on her arm. Ricci has grown up — she and husband James Heerdegen welcomed a son in August — but maybe she aged out of that phase earlier. She first joined "The Hero of Color City" around 2007: production took so long and changed so much that she had to rerecord most of her voice work.

Because many of the films Ricci did when she was younger — "The Opposite of Sex," "Buffalo '66," not to mention "The Addams Family" — were dark and self-aware, it can be disarming to see her in nicer fare. When asked about a reported quote that she was actively seeking sweeter roles, she says that's not actually true. "So much of the stuff that's out there is from different periods in my life," she says. "I always wanted to do a broad spectrum of things."

She continues, "I definitely was — and can be — sarcastic. But I was also a teenager. I tended to do things that were shocking. I just said things for shock value, because I was a teenager," she says. "Can anyone be held to the person they were as a teenager?"

She's definitely not that person anymore. "I just try to be a little bit more polite these days," she says.

Watching herself

Ricci on Ricci

Being in a cartoon also means she doesn't have to watch herself on screen, although she says she's not one of those actors who hates seeing themselves. "I don't go out of my way to watch myself on screen. But I don't necessarily avoid it either."

Which ones does she go out of her way to see? "It depends," she replies. "I find that's directly related to how good a job I've done."

From Broadway to 'Nashville'

Guest stars.

Actress Laura Benanti tries out a different singing style in her upcoming stint on the country drama.

Broadway fans may know "Nashville"'s newest guest star from her Tony Award-winning performance in "Gypsy," but Laura Benanti is trying out a new musical style these days. She'll be appearing as Sadie Stone, another in the "Nashville" roster of musical artists trying to make it in the tough world of country music.

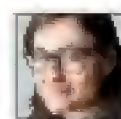

How would you describe

Sadie Stone?

She is a singer/songwriter who's been writing for probably 10 years or so. ... She's recently had sort of a breakout album that's brought her more mainstream success, so she has some decision-making to do in terms of who she's going to allow to shepherd her into the next phase of her career.

Will she be involved in some of the soapier aspects of the show?

It's been focused less on romance and drama and more on her career and her friendship with Rayna [Connie Britton]. ... It is "Nashville," so I'm sure that it'll turn into something a little bit soapier.

Bonus question

Connie Britton's perfect hair

Now that you've seen it up close, can you confirm if Connie Britton's hair is as perfect as it seems? It's like the hair is made of angels' wings. It's so gorgeous. I don't really understand it. I don't understand how it exists.

She's just doing something right with it.

Even when she comes in with her hair wet, I'm still like, "That's the most beautiful hairdo I've ever seen." And it's just, like, slicked back. It's maddening.

Music. Rapper Big K.R.I.T. swears he doesn't diss his colleagues

From atop "Mt. Olympus," Big K.R.I.T. has spoken, and he ain't happy.

On K.R.I.T.'s "Mt. Olympus," an advance single from his upcoming Def Jam album "Cadillactica," the Southern rapper addresses the supposed diss by Kendrick Lamar on the Big Sean track "Control."

Lamar took swipes at rappers K.R.I.T., Drake, Wale, Pusha T, Meek Mills and others on the track, which is essentially a throne grab.

Yet, "it wasn't a diss," says K.R.I.T. of "Control." "Hip-hop is competitive. ... It's a hip-hop record at the end of the day, and some people view the song differently. But for me, I took the time and put the song into perspective and I'm turning a negative into a positive."

Instead, K.R.I.T. directs his wrath at the workings of a music industry that pits performers against each other. He delivers his rhymes with bite, a statement of resistance against the vicissitudes of hip-hop.

"I ain't drawn to all this propaganda," K.R.I.T. rhymes on "Olympus," "rap s— about as real as Santa."

Quoted

"It's a hip-hop record at the end of the day, and some people view the song differently. But for me, I took the time and put the song into perspective and I'm turning a negative into a positive."

Big K.R.I.T., about "Control"

"King Remembered In Time," was born Justin Scott in Meridian, Mississippi. He also takes a shot on "Olympus" at the sometimes second-class citizenship of Southern rappers.

"In a small city, it's hard to get exposure because you have to travel so much and a lot of people don't have the means to travel," he says. "If you don't have a label in your backyard, it's hard to get your music to the mainstream. If you're in a big city, it's a little easier."

How did K.R.I.T. do it? "A lot of prayer," he says. "Something pushed me forward. This music thing, it's a marathon." CHRIS JORDAN

Consumers rush to get free TV after Supreme Court ruling

U.S. households to get free TV with slick little micro antenna device engineered to pull in all over-the-air TV channels for free as law forces network giants to broadcast all TV signals regionally to all 50 states

Free TV: Crystal clear HDTV picture with no cable, no satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills

NATIONWIDE - Consumers just got handed a really good reason to get rid of cable and satellite bills.

Everyone fed up with high cable and satellite bills, huge channel bundles and poor customer service are now flocking to get a slick little micro antenna device that lets U.S. households watch broadcast TV legally without paying a cable or satellite company for it and no monthly bills.

So much attention is now being focused on this slick little device since the High Court handed down the big win for consumers.

The landmark decision highlights the public's ability to get all the top rated national TV network and regional shows broadcast over the air absolutely free.

The only thing consumers need to do to get the slick little micro antenna device is call the Free TV Order Hotline beginning at 8:30am this morning or simply return the Free TV Claim Form printed at the bottom of this page before the 3-day postmark deadline ends.

Everyone who does is getting the slick little $88 device at a real steal because it pulls in crystal-clear digital TV channels for free with no monthly bills.

The target audience for the slick little micro antenna device has been young urban professionals who don't want to watch more than 20 or 30 live TV channels. But now older folks are snapping up the slick little device because it's rapidly becoming popular for those on fixed incomes and anyone who just doesn't want to pay a cable or satellite bill anymore.

"When advanced technology enables consumers to just plug in a simple device to get free TV, consumers are the winners," said David Martin, Senior Analyst at CompTek, the company that makes the sleek little micro antenna device that works on virtually any TV.

"This special advertising feature is being so widely published because there's never a monthly bill to pay and all the channels you get are absolutely free," Martin said.

"That's why the slick little device is not like being tied to a cable or satellite company. The device is engineered to access solely over-the-air signals that include all the top rated national and all broadcast stations, like DISNEY (ABC), COMCAST (NBC), CBS, 21st Century FOX (FOX), PBS, CW and about 90% of the most watched TV shows like America's Got Talent, NCIS, The Big Bang Theory, 60 Minutes, The Bachelorette, Blue Bloods, Dateline, Person of Interest, American Idol, The Voice, Dancing With the Stars, CSI, Two and a Half Men, Sunday Night Football plus news, weather and sports all for free with no monthly bills," Martin said.

That means consumers who get the slick little device can channel surf through all the nation's top favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels consumers get depends on where they live. People living in large metropolitan areas can get up to 53 crystal-clear digital channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even consumers in rural areas that pull in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts will still get hundreds of shows each year to watch for free.

"It's so simple all you do is just plug it into the back of your TV and place the razor thin micro device on a window or wall, then autotune does all the rest. It works on virtually any model TV and you get a stunning HDTV quality picture,"

Martin said.

"It just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get all the top rated network channels and hundreds of shows absolutely free," he said.

But there is no time to waste, early reports show the free TV Hotlines are extremely busy.

So, if lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. (Continues on next page)

WHO WINS IN SUPREME COURT'S LANDMARK DECISION

WINNERS:

CONSUMERS

Consumers who get a slick little micro antenna device like the razor thin Clear-Cast® brand will get free TV with no monthly bills. The courts ruling emboldens the ability for consumers to legally use the slick little device in their own home to get free TV. The simple device is engineered to pull in nothing but free TV channels in crystal-clear digital picture with no cable, satellite or internet connection. That's why this slick little micro antenna is a real steal at just $88 because it is such a smart alternative for everyone who is sick and tired of paying cable and satellite bills.

NETWORKS AND TV STATIONS

With the victory, all major networks and TV stations get to protect their copyrights, but they must continue to comply with Federal Law 47CFR SEC. 1.4000 which allows consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device to receive all the crystal-clear over-the-air broadcast channels for free. Shown here are a handful of the major networks that must broadcast over the air channels that consumers can receive for free with the slick little micro antenna devices that saves money by not picking up expensive cable only channels like ESPN so there's never a monthly bill for consumers to pay.

Network trademarks and programs are the property of their respective owners and are not affiliated with or endorsing the antenna devices. Consumers report the crystal-clear picture quality with the Clear-Cast brand micro antenna device is the best quality picture they've ever seen.

MOVIE STUDIOS

Hollywood cheered the high court's decision because consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device will receive all of the major network Hollywood movies broadcast over the air for free.

LOSERS:

AEREO

Aereo will likely suspend its business since the court's decision after it developed a way to bootleg major TV network's content. Aereo charged subscribers $8 to $12 a month to lease a dime size remote antenna located in the company's facility.

DEVICE MAKERS

The Computer & Communications Industry Association backed Aereo's position, having concerns that the ruling could be detrimental to other cloud services.

CORD CUTTERS

TV viewers in large cities such as New York, Dallas and Boston who relied on Aereo's service that provided more than two dozen local channels.

'Clutter is so not chic'

Tips. Expert advice on how to be a domestic diva.

For most of us, the thought of conquering the dishes or tackling loads of laundry elicits eye rolls, sighs and groans. We're too busy during the week and are having too much fun on the weekends. We allow the piles to grow exponentially until we have no choice but to attack — basically, when we're out of dishes or clean underwear.

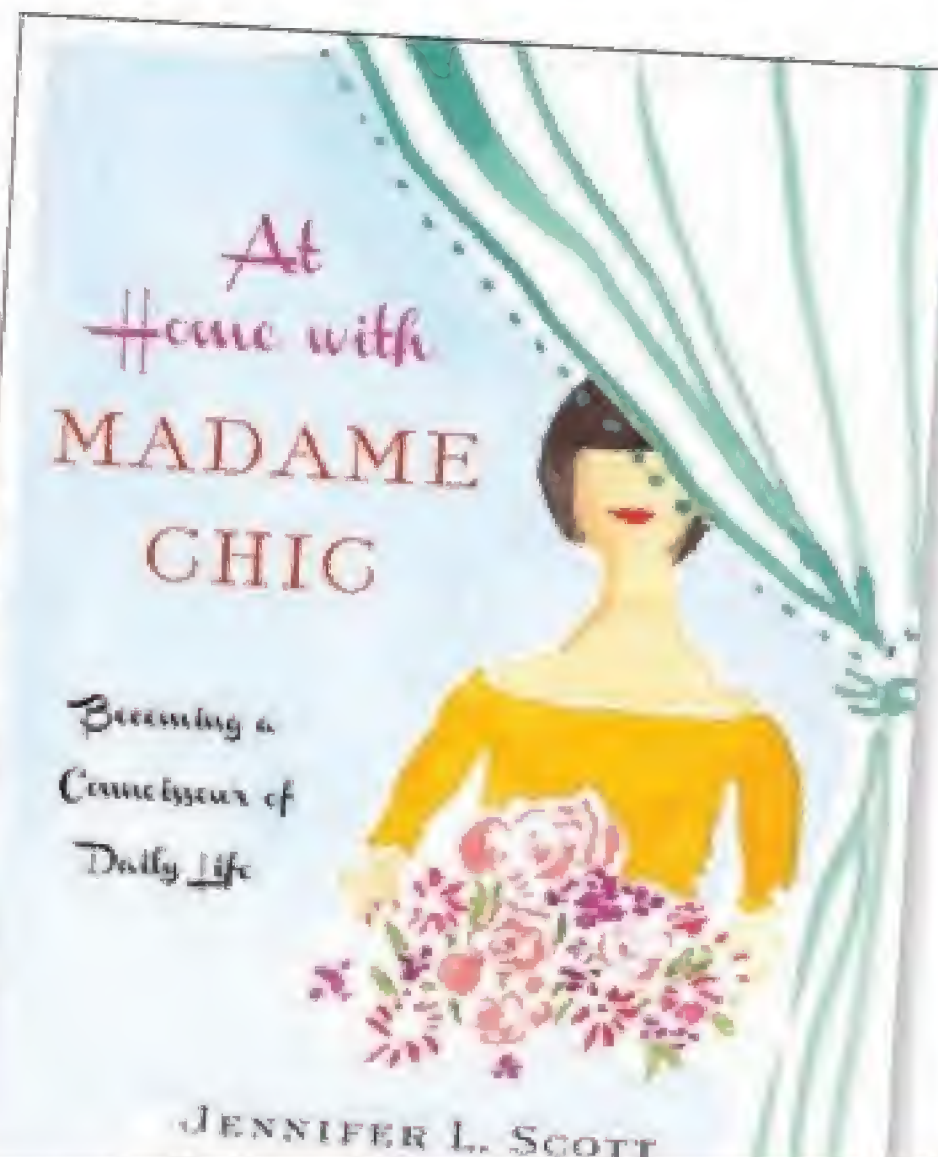

Jennifer Scott, the best-selling author of "Lessons from Madame Chic," a book that shares secrets about how to live like a stylish Parisian, is now releasing a new book, "At Home with Madame Chic." In it, she focuses on bringing passion back into those pout-provoking chores.

"Doing the small things that we have to do throughout the day, like tidying up the kitchen after breakfast, putting away the dishes and folding the laundry, makes our house more of a home," says Scott. "Homemaking is kind of an old-fashioned pastime, but I think it's something that everyone can do."

So how could we possibly ever feel chic while cleaning the toilet?

Scott shares some tips to help you dominate domestic life.

JENNIFER SCOTT

Trade in that ratty T-shirt for a shirt that makes you feel good, says Scott.

Until your dream house

Appreciate the home you have, says Scott. "A lot of people think, 'Oh, when I move to this house or this city, I'll be happy.' You have to live well in the home you have right now."

MOLLY CONGDON

Stay away from the sweatpants

Dress to impress, even at home. "A lot of people don't like to wear their nice clothes at home because they're worried they're going to ruin them," says Scott. Her solution is a layer away. "Just put an apron on over your dress while doing the dishes."

Manage mess

"Clutter is so not chic," Scott says. Decluttering your home is essential because it makes your life a lot easier. For many of us, mornings are a mad rush out the door. By the time we pick our outfit, put on our faces and grab our bags, we barely have time for a couple bites of toast. Want to start your day in a nonhectic way? Scott says to take care of a few simple things the night before, like cleaning the kitchen and prepping for breakfast. "It saves time and alleviates the stress of constantly feeling like you're going to be late."

Create a pump-up playlist

"True chic is an inner state of being and maintaining inner peace throughout your day, no matter what you're doing," says Scott. "Instead of bemoaning the task in your head, get excited about it and do what you can to make it something you look forward to every day." How can you get yourself amped? Scott recommends playing your favorite music, listening to a book on tape or even simply meditating while doing these domestic duties.

What makes a good parent?

I call it either loving discipline or disciplined love: There is a balance between those positive, affectionate, close-bonded feelings and the ability to be firm or to step back and let the child become their own person, which can be very difficult for moms to do. The challenge for children is to be able to depend on their parents for help and guidance.

Lorelei couldn't lean on her mom.

If you don't have a mother who believes in you, it's a real blow to self-confidence. There are lots of ways that can show itself in life, whether it's not having very good relationships, promiscuity, drug abuse, depression, all the many avenues that we can take to cope with the feeling that we're not lovable.

How realistic was 'Gilmore Girls'?

Daughters of young moms:

Lorelei is still growing up herself, and you can see in that relationship — this is fairly common in real life — that there's a lot of pressure on the child to mother the parent, if the parent is young and also doesn't have parents that they can turn to.

Rory and Lorelei Gilmore have an aspirational relationship, Kunst says. / THE CW

Family issues.

Psychoanalyst Jennifer Kunst talks mothers and daughters.

Was it a nice weekend outside? "Gilmore Girls" fans wouldn't know, as they likely spent the weekend in front of Netflix, watching the mother-daughter dramedy that reminded us to call our moms just a little more often.

Lorelei and Rory Gilmore have the kind of mother-daughter relationship that many wish they could have, but the show did omit a crucial element, according to psychoanalyst Dr. Jennifer Kunst.

"One of the cool things about 'Gilmore Girls' that draws people in is that they're so bonded to each other," she says. But "they don't deal too much with what ordinary mothers and children have to deal with, which is the other side of that: being separate."

With 20 years of experience, Kunst says parent-related complaints are the second most common from patients at her practice, which she addresses in her new book, "Wisdom from the Couch." We asked her how realistic "Gilmore Girls" was and what makes relationships with our parents difficult.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metrouis

Where you lead

Why did the show resonate with so many people?

There was a mix of real-life struggle, and people really trying to improve themselves and providing each other support in doing so. And the other thing is the relationship that Lorelei and Rory have with each other — it's an ideal, it's what we all wish we could have and is probably not actually possible in real life, but there is something beautiful about it that is an aspiration, in a way.

Should moms and daughters be friends?

When you've got little ones, in particular, friendship is a component of the relationship, but there is so much discipline and learning involved that friendship can't be, in a healthy way at least, at the center. But when we grow up and we have lives of our own, then we can return to that relationship with our mothers, still mother-daughter but the growing and the discipline that mom needs to help us with has been established and friendship can take a more central role.

Don't fear Ebola, work to stop it

Instead of, or maybe in addition to, talking about the science behind global warming, we should also be talking about the science behind Ebola. As a medical student, I am surprised at the sensationalist coverage by the media that is causing fear over a possible outbreak in the U.S. Ebola is spread through contact with bodily fluids, period. It is not spread through the air. In fact, it's similar to HIV in that unless you have sex with an infected person or touch their blood, vomit, mucus, etc., you're more than likely safe. The reason it's such a problem in African countries is because they have a different culture and education level than we do here. For example, because of the poverty there, they will do things like take sick people's sheets and use them without washing them, thus spreading the virus. So don't be scared, but perhaps consider donating money to an organization who is on the front lines fighting the disease.

Find a better role model

Re: 'Characteristics of successful people' (Metro, Oct. 7) I take exception to the Timothy Sykes article. What did Sykes do or make, whom did he help or what did he develop that makes him a successful person in the eyes of Metro? In this era of post-deregulation, we have all learned, to our shock, just how easy it has been for young traders to make millions, as long as they're relatively bright, highly caffeinated and willing to not think too much about the implications of what they're doing. Has Metro completely forgotten the journalistic importance of historical context? Do you think a self-published laundry list of this young man's supposed positive characteristics is a sufficient root-cause analysis of his "success"? Next time, please interview someone who has achieved genuine success in a nondestructive endeavor.

Peterson will plead 'not guilty'

Vikings running back Adrian Peterson will make his first court appearance in Texas Wednesday and he is expected to plead "not guilty" to child abuse charges, according to an ESPN report. "If the court asks for a plea [and we do expect that to happen], it will very definitely be NOT guilty," a spokesman for Peterson's attorney told ESPN.com. Peterson allegedly hit his 4-year-old son with a "switch" earlier this year and he was charged with reckless or negligent injury to a child in September.

Visit Metro.us to see the entire 2014-15 Boston Celtics season schedule.

NHL Expectations are again high for the Bruins as they enter the 2014-15 season as favorites in the Eastern Conference.

After a mostly drama-free training camp, save for Torey Krug and Reilly Smith's silent holdouts and seven tedious preseason games, the Bruins' 2014-15 regular season finally begins on Wednesday (7:30 p.m., NBCSN) at TD Garden as they take on the Flyers.

Much is again expected of the B's, who won the President's Trophy last season and return the Vezina Trophy winner in Tuukka Rask, the Selke Trophy winner in Patrice Bergeron and the runner-up for the Norris Trophy in Zdeno Chara. According to Bovada, the Bruins have 10-1 odds to win the 2014-15 Stanley Cup, the best odds in the East.

Here are three storylines to keep tabs on this season:

RICH SLATE
@RichSlate

No trouble on the top line

For salary cap reasons, Boston couldn't retain future Hall of Famer Jarome Iginla (30 goals, 31 assists, plus-34, eight game-winning goals) who had a solid season in Black and Gold in 2013-14. Iginla, who will be facing his old team in a Columbus Day matinee next Monday, took his talents to Colorado.

Loui Eriksson ap-

LOUI ERIKSSON HAD 37 POINTS IN 61 GAMES LAST SEASON.

pears to be the winner, by default, of a coveted spot on the top line with David Krejci and Milan Lucic. Though he played 61 games last season, his first season in Boston, it was hard to get much of a read on the former Dallas Star. We heard about his skill and versatility but what most saw last season was a finesse player that didn't do anything above average. Maybe with a clean bill of health and more talent around him, he will be able to start to prove his worth, and that Boston's front office didn't give up on Tyler Seguin too soon.

The Patriot way

The sports are different but when Johnny Boychuk was traded to the Islanders, less than a week before the start of the regular season, you couldn't help but think of the Patriots' trade of guard Logan Mankins. Both players were respected and dependable members of many winning teams but were ultimately casualties of the salary cap. Only time will tell how much Boychuk's departure affects the Bruins, but for what it's worth, all the players that spoke to the media last Saturday seemed crushed about the news.

It's Tuukka time, all of the time

For the third straight season, there will be a new player backing up star goaltender Tuukka Rask. In 2013, it was Anton Khudobin and last year it was Chad Johnson (17-4-3). Khudobin is now the starting goaltender in Carolina while Johnson is the backup for the Islanders. Step right up, Niklas Svedberg. The 25-year-old Swede has been the starter the last two seasons in Providence and he won his lone appearance with the big club last year. If he should falter in his rare outings, Malcolm Subban will be waiting for his shot. P.K.'s younger brother had some impressive moments in the preseason.

NFL power rankings | by Matt Burke

No. 1

Seahawks (3-1)

The champs looked rusty against Washington in that they had several big plays called back due to penalties. The Seahawks head back home this weekend to face the 4-1 Cowboys, a team they will more than likely expose as frauds.

Broncos (3-1)

Remember a few years back when most NFL observers were convinced that Peyton Manning would be a shell of himself due to the neck issues? Manning threw for 479 yards in a win over Arizona.

No. 3

Chargers (4-1)

We don't buy Geno Smith's West Coast time excuse, but even if Smith had been a half hour early for that meeting, the Chargers were still going to whip the Jets. Imagine if Branden Oliver is for real?

No. 4

Cardinals (3-1)

We're the nice guys that will give the Cards a pass for their 21-point loss in Denver. Carson Palmer is currently getting his "muscles stimulated" (sounds dirty) and it looks as though he could be back very soon.

No. 5

Eagles (4-1)

It was chic to rag on the NFC East in the pre-season. But as of now, the division owns two 4-1 teams in the Eagles and Cowboys, a red-hot Giants team and a Redskins team that went toe-to-toe with Seattle.

No. 6

Packers (3-2)

Green Bay's seven-point performance against the Lions on Sept. 21 appears to have been a wake-up call. The Packers scored 38 points against the Bears in Week 4 and posted 42 points on the Vikes in Week 5.

No. 7

Bengals (3-1)

No one was beating the Pats in Foxboro on Sunday, but we really need to see Cincy step up when the lights are bright one of these days. Marvin Lewis is close to becoming this generation's Marty Schottenheimer.

No. 8

Cowboys (4-1)

It's too easy to jab at Dallas' 4-1 record and it is almost sure to get its comeuppance Sunday in Seattle. But talent is talent, and everyone would want the 2014 versions of DeMarco Murray and Dez Bryant.

No. 9

Colts (3-2)

The Colts have been thought of as nothing more than "Andrew Luck and a bunch of Jimmy's and Joe's" the past few years. But that defense looked awfully good in Sunday's win over the Ravens.
